port and Preston.

1708

A notable convention was le'c Aug 1st 25th at Hinton to nominate a candidate for Congress from the Third District to oppose the dual nomination of the Republicans.

Of all the prizes that West Virginia holds for Democrats this year this nomination was considere I the best.

The convention was set for two clock Thursday, and Wednesday noon the forces began to arrive.

Wm. S. O'Brien, of Upshur, was the first candidate to announce himself having started his campaign while the snow was on the ground last winter. He was unable to reach the convention owing to sickness but the Upshur delegation was for him.

Henry B. Davenport, of Clay, had announced himself for the place some months ago and had a large number of devoted friends and supporters.

Adam Littlepage was urged to run by a number of friends but was deterred on account of business interest which demand his closest attention.

John A. Preston was in the hands of his friends and was willng to accept the nominatian but had made no active canvass for the same. A number of his friends were on the ground early Rhinehart and Dennis Sue for Breach and had he received the support of Monroe county he would probpresent especially.
